(including Maintained School)

Recruitment of People with Past Convictions

Introduction

Local authorities have access to criminal records for those potential employees whose posts would involve responsibility for children and/or other vulnerable groups. This is referred to as 'Disclosure'. This Policy explains the purpose of Disclosure; what candidates for employment must disclose; how disclosed information will be considered and how it will affect employment; and who will consider the information. It also indicates how Disclosed information will be handled and destroyed.

Purpose of Disclosure

The primary purpose of Disclosure is to facilitate safe recruitment decisions. It will help prevent unsuitable people having access to jobs and positions that provide opportunity to harm children and vulnerable adults. It will provide information to help recruiters make more informed decisions about the suitability of those seeking to work in positions of trust.

What must candidates for employment disclose?

Anyone applying for a post where Disclosure applies is required to disclose the details of all convictions, cautions, reprimands or final warnings that are not 'protected' as defined by the Rehabilitation of Offenders Act 1974 (Exceptions) Order 1975 (as amended in 2013).

How will this information affect employment?

Past convictions will not necessarily be a bar to obtaining a position. If you have past convictions and disclose them, consideration will be given to the nature of the offence stated and its relevance to the post applied for. This will be considered by Registered Officers of the Council who specialise in the area of employment concerned. Disclosure will only affect you obtaining employment where the particulars of the offence make you an unsuitable candidate. The Registered Officers will consider the following:

- whether the convictions or other matters revealed are relevant to the position in question,
- the seriousness of any offence revealed,
- the length of time since the offence or other matters occurred,
- whether the applicant has a pattern of offending behaviour or other relevant matters, whether the applicant's circumstances have changed since the offending behaviour.

The failure to disclose convictions that are not protected could, however, be seen as a deliberate attempt to gain employment by deception, and as such may result in the withdrawal of any offer of employment.

How will the information disclosed by an applicant be checked?

If a candidate is successful in their application for a post requiring Disclosure, they will be required to authorise the Authority to apply for disclosure of information from the Disclosure & Barring Service (DBS).

The DBS is a central government agency which provides information on criminal records, and people banned from regulated activity with vulnerable groups, including children. The application for Disclosure is made by the Authority to the DBS, who undertake to issue a response within 1 to 3 weeks. The response is in the form of a Certificate of Disclosure.

As part of its agreement with the DBS, the Authority conforms to the Codes of Practice it publishes regarding disclosure of convictions, cautions, reprimands and warnings. Copies of the Code of Practice are available by visiting the Disclosure and Barring Service website.

Will a candidate be given the opportunity to explain?

Any matters revealed by a Disclosure that will affect a recruitment decision will be discussed with the candidate prior to a decision being made. Any dispute regarding the contents of the Disclosure will be referred to the DBS. Ultimately, it is the responsibility of the Registered Officer(s) to decide whether to offer the candidate a position.

How secure is Disclosed Information?

Disclosure contains sensitive personal data which must be handled suitably and carefully and only by those in the organisation who are entitled to see it in the course of their duties, i.e. the Registered Officers.

As part of the agreement for access, the DBS will only provide information at the request of, and to, specified officers who are registered with them by the Authority, referred to as 'Registered Officers'.

The Registered Officers must store confidential documents relating to Disclosure in secure conditions. These must be kept in lockable and non-portable storage containers. Keys or combinations for such storage units must not be freely available within the organisations, and access must be restricted to named individuals.

Those registered for Disclosure are:

1. The Head of Human Resources
2. The Human Resources Manager

It is an offence to disclose information provided by the DBS.

How long is information retained?

Once a recruitment decision has been made, the Disclosure Certificate and associated correspondence will be retained for a maximum of 6 months. This period allows for any dispute about the accuracy of a Certificate or a recruitment decision to be made and considered. In the case of a dispute, Certificate information may be retained for a period of 6 months after resolution of the dispute. For posts in registered services within Adult Social Care and Health, the retention period is 12 months. For posts in registered services within Children and Young People's Services, the Certificate is retained until the next inspection. The usual conditions in respect of storage and access remain in place during this period.

Disclosures will be destroyed by suitable secure means, i.e. shredding, pulping or burning. They will not be kept in any insecure receptacle (e.g. waste bin or confidential waste sack) whilst awaiting destruction.

A record of the date of a Disclosure, the name of the subject, the type of Disclosure, the position in question, the unique number issued by the DBS and the recruitment decision taken will be retained.
