

For our new head-teacher I would like someone who will always come to our assemblies and visits us in class. I would also like them to let us have Christmas plays again because everyone wants them, and we all agree we should have them. Someone who will take notice of our school and listen to children when we want to speak to them. I want someone who is kind to us and understanding.

They need to let children speak to them and understand them by helping, sorting out their problems. They have to understand what their problem is, whether it's in school or at home, they need to understand and help them.

I would like someone who makes fair decisions for our school, and makes sure if they ever got things for school, everyone would get a turn of it.

We will need someone strict to help us learn and teach us better. We want someone who will improve our school. It is a good school at the moment but maybe our new head-teacher could make it outstanding.
